Workplace Pride’s Global Benchmark results show that more organisations are focusing on LGBTIQ+ inclusion in spite of challenges.

With a growing number of participants, 2022 findings indicate that more organisations are taking changes to society and workplaces more seriously than in the past.

Ongoing social changes alongside the aftermath of the global pandemic have dramatically changed how employers look at the dynamic of workplaces for both employees and clients. It also impacts their relationship with the LGBTIQ+ community. Workplace Pride is encouraged to see that the results of our 2022 Global Benchmark, the international measurement instrument for LGBTIQ+ workplace inclusion, testify to this fact.

Congratulations go to those organisations that have each scored higher than 90% on the Workplace Pride Global Benchmark survey. Receiving the title of “Advocate”, these organisations are breaking new ground for LGBTIQ+ inclusion in their activities around the world and setting the tone for change beyond the workplace in society at large.

The Workplace Pride Global Benchmark was first released in 2014 as an annually recurring survey that allows participants to track their progress. It has been developed under the leadership of Workplace Pride and with the support of the University of Leiden and major employers and NGOs from several different countries.

The Benchmark represents the ideal of LGBTIQ+ workplace inclusion around the world and is designed to provide management the data to measure, and thereby improve, LGBTIQ+ workplace inclusion in their organisations, wherever they are. Each participating organisation receives a detailed overview of their progress broken down into the following 8 categories: Policy & Communication, Employee Networks, Workplace Awareness, Support & Benefits, Inclusion & Engagement, Expertise & Monitoring, Business & Supplier Engagement, Societal Impact.
